

NEWS RELEASE

For Immediate Release:

11/8/2002

Tod Whitehurst of Blacksburg, who graduated with honors from Blue Ridge School of Massage & Yoga on August 29, 2002 is now a nationally certified massage therapist, having received high scores on the National Certification Board for Therapeutic Massage and Bodywork exam on October 23. Passage of the national board exam is required for massage therapists to be certified in the state of Virginia. Whitehurst used a layoff from his job as a quality assurance analyst last year to accelerate completion of his massage therapy training.

His private practice, under the name of Keep N Touch Massage & Bodywork, is located in the offices of Blue Ridge School of Massage & Yoga, at 2605 Ramble Road in Blacksburg, near the Virginia Tech Corporate Research Park. He is also providing workplace massage at Virginia Tech, and is co-instructor of Couples Massage through the Virginia Tech YMCA Open University.
